Meet the Musician

Xander Benham (Essex, UK) is a pianist, composer, and recording artist based in the Netherlands. His musical journey began at age eleven when he was gifted a piano by his late grandmother—a moment that sparked a deep fascination for the instrument. Within a year, he was performing works by Debussy and Liszt. He later completed his Bachelor of Music with honours at City, University of London, receiving classical training at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama under Edward Liddall (MA GGSM), and studying composition with Aaron Einbond. Seeking to continue blending performance with contemporary creation, Xander moved to the Netherlands to study at HKU Utrecht Conservatory, completing his Master's degree in Composition and Performance in 2019 under Henry Kelder.

As a performer, Xander has appeared in major venues across the Netherlands, including TivoliVredenburg (Utrecht), Het Concertgebouw (Amsterdam), and live on Dutch national radio NPO 4. He has premiered modern classical works and concertos, maintains an extensive modern repertoire—particularly the music of Nikolai Kapustin—and performs both as a soloist and with his ensemble, The Xander Trio. Internationally, he has been recognised as a finalist in the HONENS International Piano Competition (2021) and the UK Piano Open (2023).

Based in Utrecht, Xander is also an active teacher of piano and composition, works closely with the modern publishing house Edition MatchingArts, and is the founder and organiser of the Utrecht Piano Meetup Group — a growing community for adult pianists and piano enthusiasts.
